A Life of Character J. R. Miller

From an esteemed Christian author, Editorial Superintendent of the Presbyterian Board of Publication, and pastor of several churches in Pennsylvania and Illinois, and first published in 1894, A Life of Character answers the one question that has dominated humanity for centuries—what is our purpose? As Christians, we know that, in J. R. Miller’s own words, that “the building of character is the most important business of life. It matters little what works a man may leave in the world; his real success is measured by what he has wrought along the years in his own being.” Yet the challenge is integrating this lofty ideal with living in the here and now.

A Life of Character is both a guide to living and an invitation to a transformation of character that will elevate you beyond our earthly pursuits of wealth, power and sex and into a virtuous state of purity, truth and love; a wholly satisfying life built after divine patterns.

For it is not enough to make our lives true—only so far as men can see them. We have but scorn for men who profess truth, and then in their secret life—harbor falsehood, deception, insincerity. There must be truth through and through, in the really noble and worthy building. A little flaw, made by a bubble of air in the casting, has been the cause of the breaking of the great beam years afterward, and the falling of the immense bridge whose weight rested upon it. Truth must be in the character—absolute truth. The least falsehood mars the beauty of the life.

Beautifully written, rich with insights and lined with thought-provoking material, A Life of Character is nothing less than a clarion call for believers to manifest their everyday actions as evidence of the faith within.
